

Caracole presents Fleur, designed by Claudio Bellini Studio

Fleur is the new collection by Caracole designed by Claudio Bellini Studio that combines contemporary design with premium materials. Inspired by nature and the concept of flair, a natural and effortless elegance, Fleur stands out for its soft, flowing lines, refined tailored details, and the use of fine materials such as flamed Canaletto walnut and ivory-coloured mohair.

The Fleur collection offers complete solutions for both living and sleeping areas, featuring sofas, armchairs, coffee tables, beds, and storage units where materials and forms come together in a cohesive and sophisticated language.

In the upholstered pieces, the curved Canaletto walnut frame embraces the ivory mohair padding with a soft, enveloping gesture, ensuring both structural solidity and formal elegance.

In the furniture pieces, the same Canaletto walnut interacts with unfilled travertine, left with open pores to enhance its raw texture, creating volumes with gentle shapes and a refined balance between solidity and visual lightness.

Each piece in the collection perfectly integrates into Caracole's aesthetic language, inviting you to experience your home as a source of joy while embodying the concept of quiet luxury, of which Caracole is a refined interpreter.

With Fleur, the collaboration between the American brand and the Milanese studio results in an elegant, contemporary, and timeless collection dedicated to those who wish to create an emotional and sensory connection with their living spaces.
