1 | Modshop's Naples Three Door Credenza wears 7-inch lucite legs and a Hunter Green finish. Also available in two- or four-door options and in customizable colors. Three-drawer is $2,595. Modshop1.com.

2 | The Urban Elevation Entertainment Center from Hooker Furniture features a white plaster accent finish and solid resawn maple hardware. Exposed bolts on both ends of the hardware lend a rustic luxe or chic industrial feel. $1,759. Hookerfurniture.com.

3 | The Karlson Credenza from Currey & Co. makes a bold statement with hand-painted vellum. Made of oak solids and veneer, the piece has soft-close hinges, eight adjustable shelves, adjustable glides and a center foot with leveler, and cord management. $4,890. Curreyco.com.

4 | Noir's Naomi Sideboard can be used as a media console or versatile storage and display piece. It features rattan drawer fronts and a washed walnut finish. $3,420. Style Connection LTD in Manalapan (to the trade) or noirfurniturela.com.

5 | With strong horizontal lines the Modern Streamline Entertainment Center from Caracole is a story in mixed media. The rectangular case features a strong curve around one end for a retro-modern vibe. Made of fumed figured eucalyptus wood, finished to a high sheen in Aged Bourbon with Smoke Bronze accents and elongated custom metal hardware. For pricing and dealer locator, caracole.com.

6 | The Delphi Media Cabinet from Studio A has a gently curved front with a soft gray cerused ash finish that complements the multitone, textured grass cloth on the door surfaces, pewter door pulls and metal sleigh base. Media cutouts on the back panel allow for easy access to electronics. $3,999. Zincdoor.com or studioa-home.com.
