LOCAL DESIGNERS SHARE THEIR FAVORITE FINDS

Classically Inspired

"When I visit High Point, I love to see new trends and exciting new pieces," says designer Gigi Chapman of deGuise Interiors.

"The showrooms give me fresh new ways to make my clients' homes great."

One of Chapman's favorite manufacturers at the market is Modern History, whose name reflects its mission to construct classically styled furnishings with a modern edge. The designers at Modern History make twice-a-year visits to Europe for inspiration. Their furniture shows off an incredible attention to detail: finishes are hand-rubbed and solid oak drawers have hand-dovetailed construction.

The Linear chest with its clean lines and simple, striking design traces its roots to mid-century Italian styles. Constructed of eucalyptus, the rectangular knobs and distinctive legs are made of iron with a gold leaf finish. The chest comes in two sizes: a small bedside chest and a larger one that would be at home in a living room or foyer.

At deGuise Interiors, the design team is dedicated to creating spaces that reflect their clients' personalities and lifestyles by capturing their design dreams and making them a reality. "Today, young people want pieces they can keep forever," says Chapman. "They want tradition with a modern twist. This chest—an updated version of a bachelor's chest—is a statement piece with a modern look and finish." deguiseinteriors.com, 843-971-1491
